Felicitoro Family Spotlight: Tuntemia

The Tuntemia are a small, but old family. According to their family legend, the family is as old as Salendale itself. Sei Fabiana Liure di Tuntemia does make note that the written records support this legend. Our staff at the Oak Harbor Reporter was able to reach out to the kind Sei and learn a bit more about the house, and with the Conclave rapidly approaching it seemed only appropriate to spread this education about them to Oak Harbor.

The Tuntemia are the best family for getting you the scholarly information you are looking for. They export copies of Velliar texts, by keeping a library of their own of copies from the University and making copies for their patrons. This service is endlessly helpful for those waiting on copies from the University. From what was gathered during the interview, this capability comes from an expert knowledge in carving. The Tuntemia are experts when it comes to wooden carved stamps. For those who has seen images of Velliar texts from Salendale or elsewhere, odds are it was carved by a member of this family.

Their connection to Salendale goes deep enough that it is entwined into their family crest. The squirrel in their crest is none other than the legendary Salendale squirrel. According to their family legends, their first Matron had the pleasure of meeting this squirrel. Since then the family mission statement has been to make the city and university run more smoothly. Last edition, the Luca were given praise for their knowledge. In that same vein, we here at the Oak Harbor Reporter believe that the Tuntemia should be commended for what they have accomplished, and their efforts to make scholarly work more accessible. Thank you to Sei Fabiana for the highlight of your house.

Heard on an Autumn Breeze

Fellow Denizens of Oak Harbor, I must share with you the most eerily beautiful shanty this 'ere humble fisher e're heard in a good decade. It came t'me on a crisp autumn breeze some weeks by, just before that big ship battle o'ern yon the Harbor on an Aldersday noon. Since then the lyrics have imprinted themselves in me head, and nere an hour goes without the jaunt possessing me to sing. My hopes sharin it with you folks might'n relieve me of this beautiful malady, though I regret not havin enough musical talent t'share the melody.

That's enough of me ramblin, here are those lyrics

We sail these dark seas

With a crew made of bone warriors

We won't take our leave till our quarry is done!

We shine with the light of the voidic midnight,

And always shall we have our fun

Yo ho! The winds blowing cool

Yo ho! You'll all die like fools!

Yo ho! It's nearing high noon!

I can't wait to feast on you soon.

Other verses include:

The names Capt'n Sweeney

n' I fight with your bones.

I find the most succulent bodies to own!

I will take your dull skull

And I'll make it shine.

Your flesh and your bones shall be mine!

This one once was

A velliar scholar.

He came to me cause he wanted more power!

He asked to come in, and I said with a grin,

"Sure!"

-His screams paired well as he was devoured

I once had a lover

Who fought with such violence

Hundreds of souls, did she finally silence!

Alas she fell ill,

And my love I killed.

She's yet to return to me still.

Name: Wysteria Myren Silvertongue

Favorite Color: Lilac

3rd Favorite Bird: Budgie

Bard, Storyteller, Spellsinger; Wysteria Silvertongue wears many hats. At present, Wysteria has been enlisted to don the hat of director as Oak Harbor eagerly awaits the maiden voyage of Rickard's Deal. To Wysteria, the greatest achievement one can strive for in life is to live true to yourself and follow your dreams. An achievement he believes to be perfectly tangible.

"Art is essential in all communities to help connect people from all walks of life," Wysteria says. Wysteria and the cast and crew of Rickard's Deal have been hard at work rehearsing and preparing the launch of their premiere performance of Rickard's Deal this Gather. A performance they and Wysteria can't wait to bring to life for their fellow townsfolk. A classic tale, Rickard's Deal is sure to make waves and dazzle the crowd under Wysteria's steady direction. "Good art should disturb the comfortable and comfort the disturbed." Wysteria declares.

Guarded about his past, and a tad wary of Tobias, who he suspects to be angling for his job despite the success of the Golden Idol Tour, Wysteria prefers to remain something of a mystery to the readers of the Oak Harbor Reporter. However, as a well-versed bard, Wysteria never drops anchor for long. Already, he has charted his next artistic voyage once Rickard's Deal wraps: Wysteria's Story Hour, a collection of tales featuring sea monsters, dragons, and lawyers to any and all willing to listen. This will surely be a must-see event, sailing proudly alongside Rickard's Deal and Tobias's Golden Idol Tour.

So don't miss Rickard's Deal, premiering this Gather! With Wysteria at the helm, the cast and crew have been working tirelessly to give Oak Harbor a theater experience worthy of legend! And don't forget to catch Wysteria's Story Hour, it's definitely happening at someplace, at some time!

Voidmancy: Not even once. A preview of Rickard's Deal.

This last gather, Dame Eleanora welcomed Tobias, Vandriel, and Tikyri to preview a rehearsal of Rickard's Deal, which will be making its grand debut performance this gather. With Wysteria at the director's helm, the cast and crew have been tirelessly working the last few gathers to bring this classic tale to life. And by all reckonings, the audience is in for a voyage they won't soon forget!

Alas, between the unrelenting tides of his "Golden Idol Tour" and the endless demands that come with being a well-renowned bard, Tobias was swept away before the rehearsal could fully set sail. Ever resourceful, Tobias enlisted Tikyri, a recent arrival to Oak Harbor, to take notes during the preview. Tikyri not only rose to the challenge but exceeded Tobias' expectations, and it would be naught but neglect not to share their account in full:

"Rickard's Deal is a chilling tale, directed by Wysteria, of a voidmancer far in over his head. Shambrin leads this cautionary drama as the titular "Rickard", delivering a powerfully tragic performance that's sure to captivate the masses. Though the play is quite dark, a welcome bit of levity is provided by Faelan and Vaixtex, who deliver humorous asides for the audience to enjoy. This play's realistic depictions of voidic madness will stick with you long after it's over. Not even a weaver could conjure up such a terrible vision!"

Directed by Wysteria, Rickard's Deal stars Shambrian as the titular Rickard, Gheist as the Creature of the Void, Vacuilon, Dame Eleanor as the Great Spirit of the Dove, Zevvi di Romanza as the Creature of Reverie with Wings, and Faelan and Viatea as Velliar Scholar 1 and 2, respectively. Secure your tickets now, this show will surely be the talk of Oak Harbor!

Oak Harbor's Greatest Pest: Scourge The Great Rat Spirit!

The Oak Harbor Town Council would like to state for the record the actions of Scourge the Great Rat Spirit are thoroughly distasteful. Were once we thought Scrouge an upstanding member of the Oak Harbor community, they have elected to prove time and time again how it should be remembered that they are indeed the Great Rat Spirit. We hear at the Oak Harbor Reporter find their actions saddening, as our employee thought they had an understanding. Please be warned that Scourge is infamous for a reason.
